You have a personal cycle rhythm within time that is calculated from your date of birth. If you knew how to harness the energies of your personal cycles, do you know what you would have at your fingertips? You would have the means to make your life a masterpiece of complete happiness and achievement. What you accomplish within time creates your life—your successes and disappointments. Time is for growth!

Each new cycle day expresses a different quality of growth that, if understood, could guide you to make the best decisions and to take the most appropriate actions. Because cycles influence your thoughts, feelings, interests, and your expression, you can take advantage of the best times to put forth exceptional effort and other times to sit back, relax, and wait! Why? You will know, without a doubt, the times when your concerted efforts will bring you the very best results and you will avoid the stress of starting activities at the wrong time.

Over two amazing days, you'll understand how to apply mathematics to time to discover how your birth date determines not only your true purpose in life, but the pathway that nature intends you to follow to achieve your goals and ambitions in the most harmonious and natural way through understanding the law of cycles.
